

March LIBERAL Madness!

Who does [Your] College believe is the craziest Leftist in America?

~ THE TOP SIXTEEN ~

Here they are—the sixteen finalists as chosen by the Young America's Foundation after hours and hours of nerve-testing research. Each finalist sits on the far left of the ideological spectrum and holds backward stances on countless important issues. They are all concretely against the proven excellence of conservatism as taught and practiced by Ronald Reagan, and they seek to radically change America as we know and love it.

1. Hillary Clinton

Moment of Madness: Hillary was unable to hide her socialist beliefs in front of a group of liberals in California when she said, “We’re going to take things away from you on behalf of the common good.”

2. Harry Reid

Moment of Madness: As the surge was just beginning, Harry Reid declared, “This war is lost, and the surge is not accomplishing anything, as indicated by the extreme violence in Iraq yesterday.” Before the Surge in Iraq kicked into high gear, Harry Reid infamously declared it a failure—a failure before the very thing he criticized had even started! But now that the Surge has been wildly successful (even Barack Obama acknowledges this), al Qaeda in Iraq is decimated, and the people of Iraq are forming a constitutional democracy, Senator Reid is silent.

3. Joe Biden

Moment of Madness: In an attempt to defend Obama's economic policies last fall, Biden stated, "Look, John [McCain's] last-minute economic plan does nothing to tackle the number one job facing the middle class, and it happens to be, as Barack says, a three-letter word: jobs. J-O-B-S."

4. Barack Obama

Moment of Madness: In his first interview, President Obama announced on an Arabic news network that, with regards to foreign policy and the Middle East, the United States needs to "start by listening, because all too often the United States starts by dictating." President Obama's remarks underscore his beliefs that America is at fault for tensions in the Middle East.

5. Barbara Streisand

Moment of Madness: This "advocate" for the working class films her movies in Canada to pay fewer taxes and keep wages for the workers 20-30% below the American union scale. Nonetheless, she criticizes conservatives for their "selfish individualism" as well as their "indifference to the suffering of many."

6. Michelle Obama

Moment of Madness: Despite having lived in this great country and receiving an excellent, Ivy League education, our new First Lady did not appreciate the United States of America until just a few months ago. While campaigning for her husband, she noted, "For the first time in my adult life, I am proud of my country because it feels like hope is making a comeback."

7. Al Gore

Moment of Madness: Despite the increasing doubts and disproven "facts" about climate change, the former Vice President arrived on Capitol Hill in the midst of an ice storm and proclaimed that climate change is a "dangerous and growing threat" to the world "that could ultimately end human civilization."

8. Nancy Pelosi

Moment of Madness: There are almost too many to list for the current Speaker of the House. The epitome of San Francisco values—radically anti-marriage, pro-abortion, anti-war against radical Islam, anti-business, and pro-tax hikes, Speaker Pelosi is the most liberal House Speaker in the history of the United States. In 2005 she stated, “[The Left’s] plan is to stop him! To stop him! He must be stopped him!” Who’s him? Osama? Zarqawi? Ahmadinejad? No. President George W. Bush.

9. George Soros

Moment of Madness: This Hungarian-born leftist has spent more than $30,000,000 on leftist causes in the United States including the funding of the radical MoveOn.org, the legalization of illicit drugs, the dismantling of the war against radical Islam, abortion on demand, gay marriage, and rampant gun control. The leftist tycoon did all this while declaring in January 2007 that the United States must undergo a “de-Nazification process.”

10. Sean Penn

Moment of Madness: On January 24, 2007, the new Oscar-winning actor from Milk said, “If the United States can have nuclear weapons, then why can’t Iran have nuclear weapons?” Enough said.

11. Al Franken

Moment of Madness: This liberal champion of racial preferences, who believes conservatives are racist, has hired only one African American out of 112 people he’s had a role in hiring for his many movie and television productions.

12. Jeneane Garofalo

Moment of Madness: The current star of Fox’s 24 once said in Buzz Magazine, “Our country is founded on a sham: our forefathers were slave-owning rich white guys who wanted it their way. So when I see the American flag, I go, ‘Oh my God, you’re insulting me.’ That you can have a gay parade on Christopher Street in New York, with naked men and women on a float cheering, ‘We’re here, we’re queer!’ -- that’s what makes my heart swell. Not the flag, but a gay naked man or woman burning the flag. I get choked up with pride.”

13. Susan Sarandon

Moment of Madness: A frequent attendee at anti-war rallies sponsored by socialist groups such as ANSWER and United for Peace and Justice, this ultra-feminist celebrity once asked her fellow protesters, “How will the bombing of Baghdad, a city of five million, accomplish a regime change?” Instead of retracting her question, Sarandon continues to insist that America is no less fundamentally dangerous than al Qaeda.

14. Noam Chomsky

Moment of Madness: A self-proclaimed “socialist anarchist,” this MIT linguistics professor publicly characterized the United States as “the world’s leading terrorist state” after 9/11 and continues to condemn our troops’ mission in Afghanistan and Iraq as “terrorism, not a war against terrorism.”

15. Bill Maher

Moment of Madness: In addition to routine anti-Catholic bigotry and bragging about having “hated the Church way before anyone else,” Maher has stated that less people would die in the Middle East if Vice President Cheney was killed. He also implied that Iraq would be better off if Saddam Hussein was still in charge.

16. Michael Moore

Moment of Madness: One year after U.S. troops liberated Iraq, Moore declared that “The Iraqis, who have risen up against the occupation are not ‘insurgents,’ or ‘terrorists,’ or ‘The Enemy.’ They are the REVOLUTION, the Minutemen, and their numbers will grow -- and they will win. Get it, Mr. Bush?”